PERSONAL BACKGROUND

Dr. Haizhong Wang is an Assistant Professor of Transportation Engineering within the School of Civil and Construction Engineering at Oregon State University, Corvallis, OR. Dr. Wang received M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from University of Massachusetts, Amherst in Applied Mathematics and Civil Engineering (Transportation), and B.S. and M.S. degrees from Hebei University of Technology and Beijing University of Technology, China. Dr. Wang has published over 20 journal and major conference papers. He is very active in serving a wide variety of professional organizations and committees.

Dr. Wang is an active participant of Chinese communities. He started his COTA involvement as a student back to 2004 when COTA held the annual conference at Beijing Jiaotong University. Through his service as a student board member in 2008 and an associate area editor for CICTP 2011 and CICTP 2012, session chair for CICTP 2013, China, he developed a better understanding about the mission and scope of COTA. He would like to challenge himself to apply the board membership to serve COTA and promote the collective successes that COTA accumulated over the years.

STATEMENT

I hope to contribute to COTA in the following manner: (1) Help organize and contribute significantly in carrying out tasks associated with the Annual TRB symposium and CICTP conference series in China; (2) Assist president and vice-president to coordinate and synthesize information to communicate with COTA community; (4) Volunteer to contribute in subcommittees. My endorsement includes: Dr. Jianming Ma, Dr. Yinhai Wang and Mr. Jun Wang. If I were provided an opportunity to serve COTA, I would like to make my contribution through working closely with other COTA board members to make every effort to achieve the goals and objectives of COTA. I can be reached via voice 541-737-8538 or email Haizhong.Wang@oregonstate.edu for any suggestions.
